Major summer theater initiative underway here

By MICHAEL DANIELS
A new show will open in Bethel this summer.

The curtain will go up on a summer theater project that supporters hope will grow into a long-running cultural happening — one which will not only draw more visitors here in years to come, but also provide a level of artistic “critical mass” that has so far been in short supply.

“We might even become the Berkshires of the western mountains of Maine. We’re a far piece from that now, but there are people who have that vision.”

Todd is on the board of the Bethel Summer Theater Project.

That project is newly formed, but the idea of a summer theater here has long been a topic of discussion among local devotees of the performing arts.

“The energy is huge. I’ve never seen anything like this,” said fellow board member Dutch Dresser.

This summer’s inaugural season will feature “The Bethel Hat Fair and Family Theater Festival,” on Aug. 9-13 (more below).

As its name implies, the festival will feature fun, family fare, but from that start the summer-theater project can grow in any of a number of directions.

“There’s been significant conversation about serious dramatic arts, on the line of the Portland State Company,” said Dresser, “but we really wanted to start with something that was exciting and excellent, because you only get to start one time.”

Andrew Harris, executive director of L/A Arts, sees plenty of room for theatrical growth here, especially given the area’s wealth of other amenities.

“I think you have the potential to go a very long way here,” Harris said. “If you make it a destination to come and see theater, it’s a total experience — to dine out, to see great theater, to go for a walk by the river, or climb a mountain, whatever. I think those elements are all here.”

Into the wild blue yonder

Craig Davis of Bethel flew a helicopter last Friday. Prior to the flight he had logged more than 1,500 hours of flying time — but only on a home-computer simulator. Accompanied by a pilot, he was able to do 90 percent of the flying himself during the roughly 45-minute trip. Davis got the ride of his life after his friend, Byron Lapham, and members of the Bethel fire and police departments chipped in to buy him flying time at Maine Helicopter Inc. of Whitefield. County agrees to work with towns on township fire costs

By MICHAEL DANIEL
Following a meeting Tuesday between Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole and the Oxford County commissioners, the prospect of Bethel pulling its fire coverage from Albany and Mason townships appears to be off the table.

The likelihood Bethel would take such a drastic step was always slight, but the option was seriously discussed at a recent selectmen’s meeting.

That discussion stemmed from increasing frustration with the commissioners’ unwillingness to pay what Cole regards as a fair share of the cost of providing the fire coverage.

As a result of that unwillingness, he argued Bethel taxpayers are being forced to dig into their own pockets to subsidize fire coverage in the two unorganized territories.

Cole has calculated that the townships should pay 9 percent of the cost of providing coverage. (His calculation is based on relative population. Everyone involved, including

Plenty of owls about this winter

By ALISON ALOISIO
A couple of weeks ago, Helen Dolloff of Hanover was driving along Route 2 when a barred owl flew out of the ditch and collided with her car.

She stopped and found the bird, which was alive but hurt. It had a broken leg and an injured eye.

Dolloff took the owl home with her and put it in a box in her basement. “It was cool there, like outdoors, and quiet, so it was less stressful,” she said.

She then contacted a wildlife rehabilitator in Bridgton, and brought the bird to her.

The owl’s broken leg was set, and the eye has healed, said Dolloff. The bird, a mature female, will probably be released in the spring.

More owls around
Dolloff’s owl encounter was apparently not unusual for this winter, which has seen more than its share of owl sightings, according to Judy Walker of the Maine Audubon Society.

“We’ve had a lot more reports all over the state,” she said. “About four or five a week.”

The owl population, she said, is believed to follow regular cycles, depending in part on the population cycles of the creatures they eat, such as mice and voles.

Theatrical activity of a somewhat different sort has inspired another upcoming Bethel event.

The Telstar Football Boosters hope to make you an offer you can’t refuse — dinner Sopranos style.

For four evenings in February, the restaurant of the Gideon Hastings House will open for “an Italian feast,” with all courses drawn from “The Sopranos Cookbook.”

The restaurant has been closed this season, but owner John Amann will open it on Feb. 12, 13, 16 and 18, in a fundraiser for the campaign to re-establish football at Telstar.

Amann will be donating the food, and all proceeds and gratuities from the event will go directly to SAD44, on behalf of the Boosters.

The dinner will include soup, salad, antipasto, choice of pasta and entree, dessert, coffee and more.

A cash bar will be open, tended by Harry Faulkner and Jerry Greenwell.

The cost for the dinner is $25 for adults and $12.50 for children 12 and under.

Reservations are strongly suggested. Call 824-3496.

RV BURNS

A fire that apparently started under a heater destroyed a recreational vehicle in a Bryant Pond Village backyard Monday afternoon. The RV, owned by Joanne Walters, was home to Don Parker, who works as a chauffeur for Walters’ brother. The 17-year-old vehicle was insured, but Parker lost all his belongings. Woodstock and Greenwood firefighters put the blaze out in about 20 minutes. Parker was in the RV when the fire started, but was not injured. Tri-Town Rescue also responded to the fire scene.

HOW'D HE DO THAT?

To the Editor:

Congratulations to Dr. Finley for his fantastic cribbage hand! That is indeed a thrill not granted to many.

We have been playing cribbage for more years than we care to mention, but the logistics of a five-handed game puzzle us. How is it determined, which four cards are discarded to the crib when five people are playing? Help!

Alita (Lou) Prada and Sylvia Clanton
Bethel

(The Citizen's cribbage consultant, Pat Roma, replies: "One of the players throws his card to the bottom of the deck rather than into the crib. Generally, we have the player to the dealer's right discard to the deck. That way the other four players' cards are sent to the crib. This method can be used for more than five players - the extra cards are sent to the bottom of the deck so that only four cards go to the crib.")

MORE SUSTAINABLE OPTIONS

To the Editor:

Sustainable Western Maine (SWM) will be continuing our affordable and alternative housing speaker series. On Jan. 24, at 7 p.m. at the Norway Memorial Library, Don McLean and Tom Stocker will be talking about their combined efforts in developing a home bio-diesel system. Together, they built a distillery that converts waste cooking oil into fuel for both transportation and home heating.

Don McLean is a local holistic farm veterinarian. He lives off the grid, providing household electricity with solar panels. He shares his knowledge as a renewable energy enthusiast, having participated in previous SWM presentations and through his small business installing solar electricity systems.

Tom Stocker is a ninth-grade science teacher in Lewiston. He worked with students and the High School Automotive Department to make bio-fuel for a diesel vehicle, challenging the next generation of engineers and consumers to develop options to fossil fuel dependent transportation.

While the SWM Speaker Series has focused largely on topics around housing, transportation costs and future fuel availability and sustainability are vitally important to those of us living in rural western Maine. Please join us for a discussion on the techniques involved in using waste cooking oil as a fuel for transportation or home heating.

Thanks to Denis Bergeron, director of Energy Programs for the state of Maine and to lecturer and author John Howe for their presentations earlier in the month.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

To the Editor:

An invitation is issued to all registered local Republicans to caucus at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 22, in the meeting room of the Bethel Town Office.

The main purpose of the biennial caucus is to allow registered voters who are enrolled in the Republican Party to elect delegates and alternates to the State Convention, which will be held at the Augusta Civic Center on May 5 and 6.

Other business will include the organization of the local committee and the nomination of members to the Oxford County Republican Committee.

All local Republicans are encouraged to attend the caucus and take part in the political process in this very important election year.

And this summer's activities, Harris said, provide "an opening that allows the project to go in a number of ways in its development."

Playing a role

Fundraising for this summer's efforts is already underway, with the Mahoosuc Arts Council acting as fiscal agent.

And aside from the dollars, the project is also recruiting volunteers from the community — for assignments including creating costumes, constructing sets and stages, selling tickets and working at concession stands.

The board expects "lots of crossover and cooperation among local organizations, innkeepers and restaurants to see this project through," Todd said.

Plans are also in the works to offer two internships to aspiring young actors, who will work with the artistic director and the troupe from the time the actors arrive in town until the end of the performances. Lots of hard work will be expected, and a small stipend will be paid.

Anyone who would like to contribute ideas and energy to the summer theater project is invited to attend the next organizational meeting, Monday, Feb. 6, at 3:30 p.m. in the living room of Ordway Hall at Gould Academy.

The Bethel Hat Fair and Family Theater Festival

This summer's events — reminiscent of an Old English country festival — will take place in the village.

Each day, from noontime on, the Hat Fair will feature regional individual and small group entertainers (mimes, acrobats, singers and musicians, dancers, jugglers, etc.) showcasing their talents for those who stop by their venue.

In traditional "busker" fashion, hats will be put down to receive financial rewards from audience members.

A day's offerings may vary, ranging from a "Young Performers Day" to an "All Music Day," to other themes or features.

The other events are described as follows:

"During the early evening hours a ten-member troupe of high-energy professional and aspiring actors will present two light, comedic, family-oriented plays in repertory fashion.

"The Servant of Two Masters," a classic Italian comedy by Carlo Goldoni will keep all entertained and laughing throughout its frantic slapstick-paced performance.

"Telling Tall Tales," adapted by artistic director Andrew Harris, recounts two folk tales and has all the silliness that the young and young at heart will appreciate.

"The professional theater company, which is recreating the trade of traveling players in England, will add their hilarious and colorful performances to the five-day festival. The performances of the two shows (for which tickets will be available) will be staged at times to "suit the family audience" either outside under the stars or in Gould's well-appointed Bingham Auditorium."

The Bethel Summer Theater Program website is expected to be up in the next couple of months: www.bethelsummer-theater.org.

From the Maine Dept. of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife:

Vernal Pools: a vanishing habitat

Vernal pools are small, often isolated, forested depressions that generally fill with water following spring rains and snowmelt, and then seemingly disappear during the dry months of summer. Vernal pools have no permanent predatory fish populations, thus providing the primary breeding habitat for several species of fishless pond specialists, including Maine's primary vernal pool indicator species: spotted salamanders, blue-spotted salamanders, wood frogs, and fairy shrimp. Vernal pools also provide valuable habitat for other wildlife including several of Maine's rare and endangered species including Blanding's turtle (endangered), spotted turtle (threatened), wood turtle (special concern), ribbon snake (special concern), four-toed salamander (special concern), and the elusive ringed-boghaunter dragonfly (endangered).

The ecological functions of vernal pools are intimately dependent on the integrity of the surrounding upland forest. Leaf, branch, and other decaying plant material from the adjacent forest fuel a vernal pool's food chain. Because of their generally small, defined watersheds, vernal pool water quality is strongly influenced by the effects of land use in the immediate vicinity. Furthermore, Maine's vernal pool amphibians and endangered species regularly make use of forested upland habitat abutting vernal pools to complete their life needs, often at great distances from the pools themselves. Vernal pool amphibians and reptiles require several hundred feet of mostly undisturbed upland habitat surrounding the pool basin to ensure their continued existence. As such, it is probably more appropriate to refer to the intact forest surrounding most vernal pools as a "life zone" rather than a "buffer zone". For all these reasons, it is important to leave an area of intact natural vegetation around the pool for as great a distance as possible.

We still have more to learn about why some vernal pools receive greater wildlife use than others. To this end, the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife (MDIFW) has encouraged and supported several recent studies. Grants from the Maine Outdoor Heritage Fund and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency helped support a recently completed University of Maine study by Dr. Robert Baldwin and Dr. Aram Calhoun to research the wildlife use and characteristics of vernal pools in four southern Maine townships - Falmouth, Biddeford, Kennebunkport, and North Berwick. Their results confirm that wood frogs and other pool-breeding amphibians range widely in the forested landscape following breeding and that surrounding upland forests and shallow forested swamps provide important foraging, migration, and over-wintering habitat that is functionally connected to the pools themselves. Dr. Baldwin also developed a landscape model highlighting the vulnerability of vernal pools to rapid development in southern Maine due to insufficient conservation lands and wetland regulatory protections.

At this time, MDIFW is actively working with cooperators at University of Maine and Maine Audubon Society to promote voluntary protection measures for this valuable wetland habitat. Workshops on vernal pools have been held throughout the state and several publications describing the resource are now available to the public. A vernal pool fact sheet, describing threats and management considerations, is available upon request from MDIFW for use by landowners, municipalities, and land trusts. In 2003, a Maine Citizen's Guide to Locating and Documenting Vernal Pools was updated and republished in cooperation with Maine Audubon and University of Maine and is currently available from MDIFW (287-8000). Following extensive input from experts in Maine's wildlife and forest management community, a new document entitled Forestry Habitat Management Guidelines for Vernal Pool Wildlife was published in 2004 by the Wildlife Conservation Society and is now available from Maine Audubon (781-2330, ext. 222) and MDIFW. A companion document for developed landscapes, Best Development Practices: Conserving Pool-Breeding Amphibians in Residential and Commercial Developments in the Northeastern United States, is also available from Maine Audubon.

Finally, MDIFW recently participated in a state vernal pool-working group organized by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) for the purpose of developing a definition of significant vernal pools, a Significant Wildlife Habitat designated by the state's Natural Resource Protection Act (NRPA). The scientific criteria for designating "significant" vernal pools include a) presence of a state Endangered or Threatened species, or b) evidence of exceptional breeding abundance by one or more pool-breeding amphibians. The definition includes a 250-foot "critical terrestrial habitat" area around the pool. Designating a subset of the state's vernal pools as "significant" will help MDIFW and DEP provide regulatory guidance on development activities within a critical upland life zone surrounding this important wildlife habitat. Following public hearings during the fall of 2005, MDIFW adopted the definition of a significant vernal pool and the state's Board of Environmental Protection unanimously adopted the new rules for significant vernal pools. Both agencies will be reporting back to the Legislature in 2006 for the final consideration of proposed changes to NRPA by the Joint Standing Committee on Natural Resources. MDIFW's work with vernal pools is made possible by support from Maine's Loon Conservation Plate, Chickadee Check-off funds, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and the Maine Outdoor Heritage Fund.

Accident cuts power, closes road

BETHEL — Two teenage girls from Cumberland received minor injuries Monday when their Jeep struck a utility pole on Route 5, near the Bethel/Albany town line. Elizabeth Mayberry, 18, was driving south when she slid on ice and hit a pole on the southbound side of the road, according to Bethel Police Chief Alan Carr. She and her 16-year-old passenger were taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital by Bethel Rescue. The pole was broken and power cut off for four hours to some CMP customers in Bethel and Albany. Route 5 from Bethel Village to the Hunts Corner Road in Albany was closed while the pole was replaced and power restored.

Ski/board for cancer benefit

NEWRY — Two USASA ski/snowboard events will take place this weekend to benefit the "Boarding for Breast Cancer" organization. Organized by Gould Academy student Shelley Bowen, the slopestyle event will take place Saturday at 10 a.m., while the half-pipe will take place Sunday, beginning at the same time. Skiers and boarders may participate in both. Registration each day is at 7:30 a.m. at Barker Mountain Lodge. Registration funds and proceeds from the sale of T-shirts, bracelets and raffle tickets will go to the organization, which is a nonprofit, youth-focused education, awareness, and fundraising foundation. Its mission is to increase awareness about breast cancer, the importance of early detection and the value of a healthy lifestyle.

BETHEL — David Chamberlain, a cross-country skier based at Gould Academy, fell short of his goal to qualify for the 2006 U.S. Olympic Ski Team. He had placed in the top five among Americans in last week's U.S. Nationals races in Utah, which determine in part who makes the team. The U.S. squad usually has a half dozen members. Chamberlain, 29, is a Wilton native.

Seats up for vote in Andover

ANDOVER — Nomination papers are available at the Town Office for elections that will take place on March 21. Seven positions are up for a vote, including selectman (incumbent, Trudy Akers); road commissioner (Marshall Meisner); fire chief (Ken Dixon); SAD44 director (Sid Pew); treasurer (Sandra Conrad); Planning Board (Gerard Michaud); town clerk/tax collector (Elaine Morton). The annual Town Meeting will take place March 18.

Newry schedules meetings

NEWRY — The Board of Selectmen will meet Monday, Jan. 30 at the Town Office to work on the 2006 municipal budget. They will also meet on Friday, Feb. 3 at 10 a.m., with a representative of the Maine State Retirement System.

Airport expansion discussed

PARIS — A proposal to Oxford County Commissioners from Oxford Town Manager Michael Chamblings to expand the county airport was met with a suggestion the town of Oxford take it over. The Oxford County Regional Airport is located in Oxford. Chamblings said to keep the airport functional, the runway should be lengthened 1,000 feet. The cost is estimated at $1.5 million. The FAA would pay 95 percent of that. The county would pay 2.5 percent to match federal funding. It costs Oxford County $25,000 a year to maintain the airport. Commissioner David Duguay said the county is one of only two in the state that owns an airport. If the town took it over, he said, it would have control.

Electrical code course offered

BETHEL — A 15-hour Electrical Code Update class will be held at Telstar Regional High School on Saturday, Feb. 4 and Sunday, Feb. 5. Bob Bean, Senior State Electrical Inspector, will be the instructor. For more information, contact Adult Ed at 824-2780 or Blake MacKay at 824-2525.

Beginners investment course

ORONO — University of Maine Cooperative Extension is offering a home-study course for beginning investors with small dollar amounts. "Investing for Your Future: A Cooperative Extension System Basic Investing Home Study Course" was developed for people who are new to investing and may not have thousands or even hundreds of dollars to start with. The first three units explain how and why to invest, and explore credit management, retirement planning, risk, and creating a savings plan. The next five units break down types of investing: equity investing, fixed-income investing, mutual fund investing, tax-deferred investing, and investing with small dollar amounts. The final three units review investment resources, the selection of professional financial advisors, and investment fraud. Each unit wraps up with specific steps you can take to apply the course material to your life, and includes examples, worksheets, and a glossary. The 158-page eleven-unit home study guide was developed by a consortium of six land-grant universities, and is available from UMaine Extension's publications distribution center. Gilead

by Lin Chapman

The weather at the end of last week gave everyone a glimpse of spring. There was plenty of rain, mud in the driveway and the temperature reached 50 degrees.

I always like to consider a robin as the real first sign of spring. Well, on Saturday, Hugh noticed a robin feeding on the ground with all the other usual visitors to the feeder. I was telling my brother, Steve McLain, about the robin and discussing what there was for him to eat this time of year. Since there wasn't a worm or insect in sight, the robin was eating birdseed. According to my bird book, robins prefer sheltered areas with fruit trees in the winter. Then of course, Sunday reminded us, with high winds and snow, that spring was still quite a long way off. There was a little excitement the other morning when a small box truck missed the Wild River Bridge, went over the embankment and into the river. The Gilead Fire Department stood by to do traffic control while waiting for the crane and wrecker and during the removal. The Bethel Fire Department was called out to assist with entering the river to secure the vehicle, so it could be pulled from the water.

Notice from the Town Clerk

The time to register your dog, without any late fees, is coming to a close on Jan. 31. There will be a Rabies Clinic on Saturday, Jan. 28, at the Gilead Fire Station. The time will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The clerk will be there to register dogs from Gilead. The clinic is open to anyone from area towns.

Gilead Historical Society In a previous column, I used excerpts from "The Smile of Providence" regarding the Wild River bridges. The following is what was written about the Androscoggin River bridges.

"However, crossing the other river in town, the Androscoggin River, was still a large problem. Apparently, judging by the photos, and verbal and written comments, there were quite a few small rowboats belonging to individual farmers. John Wight mentions crossing from their farm on the North Road. This was done 'in a large flat bottomed boat that could be rowed and poled.' There was a tragic 1803 poem about the drowning of most of a young family and friend while returning home in their rowboat."

The book goes on to mention several other means of crossing the river: "the road to the old ford about midway between the Peabody Tavern and the cemetery, George Wheeler, a longtime resident, recalled hearing about a cable car where one person at a time could pull themselves across the river (where iron bridge is now), Upstream near the Shelburne line, a ferry with a road from Route 2 to the river (near present Dan Barnes' residence) and on the other side a road from the river to the North Road.

"There is a story about Deacon Burbank from the North Road, who was crossing the river in a ferryboat, when the rope broke and he and the ferryman started drifting downstream. The ferryman asked the Deacon to stop praying and start paddling.

"Being able to cross on the ice in the winter must have really emphasized the inconvenience, which had to be endured for the rest of the year. Shortly after the Civil War, Gilead decided it wanted to be one town, not two communities on separate sides of the river. In 1872, the two halves of Gilead were joined with the building of a suspension bridge over the Androscoggin River."

The book describes the bridge: "type of construction was selected because easy and inexpensive to build, slightly downstream of present steel bridge ... tower on each shore, abutments can still be seen, two pair of heavy cables anchored into the ground, wooden roadway was suspended from large cables, a lot of comments about clattering and swaying. These concerns got worse as the suspension bridge aged. Finally, cattle breaking through the floor of the bridge proved it was time to replace the suspension bridge. The replacement, built in 1923, was a steel truss, single span, and one lane wide."

"Once the town was joined together and to other towns on the Wild and Androscoggin rivers, the population increased, schools and churches were built, intervals farms were built, logging grew rapidly, the railroad came, and life became more complicated."

I would really like to hear from other residents in town. Let me know what you would like your neighbors to know about what you have been doing. This column is written for you. Call 836-2987 or e-mail chapmal@hotmail.com.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

There has been another wild weekend. Saturday, saturating rains washed away the snow and left yards more like skating rinks when the mild weather turned cold on Sunday. We actually saw some of our neighbors skating on their lawns. The never-ending roar of the wind could be heard rushing over the mountaintops all day. More than a few cellars had water gushing inside from all the rain.

Birthday greetings go to Lorraine Gallant. She recently turned 80 and a party of celebration took place at her Mill Hill Road home last Saturday afternoon. Relatives, friends and neighbors came to extend greetings to Lorraine.

There is another birthday to mention, and that is the fifth birthday of Kaylynn Mae Worcester. She celebrated her Friday-the-13th birthday with her father, Brian, and her grandparents.

Bob Brown reports that something is still getting his hens. This time he didn't blame the owls because he saw a hawk make the attack. Electrical power went off in most of Hanover, rural Rumford areas and in Milton Township early Saturday morning and the power remained off for an extended time. It was said that a transformer in the vicinity of the Madison Motel along Route 2 failed and Central Maine Power Company made repairs.

The Hanover Select Board is scheduled to meet on Tuesday, Jan. 24, at the Hanover Town Office at 5 p.m.

The holidays have come and gone and January is being its usual unpredictable self. My old grannie used to say, "first it snow, and then it thaws and now, by Nellie, it's frizz." So, in spite of protestations that it is an unusual winter, I can't see that it's changed much. I suspect she probably got the saying from her old grannie, if the truth be known. It will soon be colder than cold, I'm sure, since the saying is that "when the days begin to lengthen the cold begins to strengthen." Of course, with the heating prices the way they are we all hope it won't get too cold, but it's probably a forlorn hope.

I was sorry I could not get to see the Clydesdales, as I am sure it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for me, but the weather was just nasty enough so I didn't dare chance driving up, especially since, I am sure, they drew crowds of people. I wondered if they were as big as the horse named King I saw when I was about thirteen. And I wonder if there is anyone here who remembers King besides me. I took it into my head one day to go visit Charlotte Stevens, so I took off on my famous bicycle for South Bethel. I did have a wonderful visit. I sort of had a crush on one of Charlotte's cousins and several of her kith and kin were there also.

Someone decided we ought to go horseback riding and somehow we all ended up at the farm in East Bethel now owned by the Berniers. They, whoever they were, were willing to let us ride a couple of their farm horses except they said, not King. When I saw him I was glad they said, "not King." That horse was so big they had to modify one of the stall doors so he could stand up when going through it. Probably if they had let us ride him I would have been foolish enough to have tried it at that age. Anyhow, the boys led the ones we did ride across what was then "Bloody Street" and I got educated in how to ride a big farm horse: "carefully." They were gentle giants but they were broad and high and hard to stay on, especially when they were in a hurry to get home!

As I said, I had a wonderful day, at least until I got home that night. Because I had a sneaking suspicion I would not have been allowed to ride my bicycle that far (I lived in Bethel growing up), and I had no other means of transportation, I had told my mother I had been invited to spend the day with a friend that lived at the other end of town. The only problem was my mother saw my friend and her mother in the market where they both had, unfortunately, or looking back on it, maybe fortunately, decided to shop at the same time of day. So I was in for it.

As my Mom said, she had no problem with my visiting Charlotte, but she would have found me other transportation, and she certainly wanted to know where I was. So, probably, it was a good thing I was found out. I had learned that farm horses were harder to ride than riding horses, and a Bible truth: "be sure your sin will find you out." I also lost my bicycle for a month; but, I have to admit, I thought it had been worth it, as I met King and had, as I said, a marvelous day. Of course, if my kids had done that without telling me, they probably would have never seen a bicycle again. But, in my defense, the world had gotten a lot more dangerous by then and there were a lot more cars on the road.

I have been taking care of Ricky McLean three days a week after school as his mother, Mandy Conkright, is working at the Village Store in Bryant Pond.

Ann Fitzmorris has moved to Sudbury Village, Apt. 2, in Bethel, where I visited her Sunday evening and spent the night.

Al and Crystal Lake have returned from England where they visited their son, Brent, his wife, Jessica, and son, Hunter.

My daughter-in-law, Lorene Mills, fell down the stairs a week or so ago, scaring me half to death and banging up her good shoulder and bruising herself up pretty well. She keeps her sense of humor, though, as she says her good shoulder has now become her bad shoulder and her bad shoulder has become her good bad shoulder.

Ralph Mills took his wife, Lorene, and Ricky McLean and I to see "The Chronicles of Narnia" the other afternoon. It was pretty good. Ricky behaved very well considering it was a long time to sit for a six year old. Guess that tells one that the movie was interesting.

What a year this has been! It is barely mid-January and we have had every kind of weather imaginable, already. We have had rain, snow, ice, spring-like sun and winter cold. It has been a truly Maine January, so far.

Sunday evening, the wind was so brisk that all our wind chimes were clanging. Since David makes them from old metal parts, we have many of them. But they were nothing compared to the sound of the wind itself. The wind came through the valley sounding like a freight train at full speed. It wasn't the chugga, chugga that one hears when the train is closer, either; it was the roar of the train at full speed. It was a joy to wake in the morning and find everything where it belonged.

I'm sure that the sudden cold after a day of pouring rain was what led to a string of frozen pipes at homes throughout the area. We were lucky and careful and had no trouble, but others did. We just rose several times in the night and stoked the stoves and tested the water at the same time. It is a habit I got into living at my house in Newry where the pipes froze on a regular basis. Fortunately I always caught them in time and defrosted them before they burst.

David bought the bullet and called Medicare and talked to them about those new prescription drug plans. The woman he spoke with was very nice and also very helpful. He was able to figure out the best program for him, based on what drugs he takes. That was a relief, because each script costs over $100 per month. He couldn't just take cheap drugs like me. Mine only cost $8 per month. But now he'll get them at an affordable cost. Personally, I do not understand why we are the only industrialized country in the world without universal healthcare. Perhaps Bush can explain it.

Whoever broke into the Waterford/Albany/Stoneham transfer station came away empty handed. It is a nuisance but we do not keep anything of value in the transfer station. We carry it in and carry it out again. It does cost the towns money in repairs and labor and it is figured into their taxes and dump fees; so they hurt themselves as much as anyone. The place is now being watched more carefully by the State Police, and I hope that will help.

Thursday, the 19th, at 6 p.m. there is a community supper at the Wilkins House. It is potluck so bring a dish to share and a friend.

I was sorry to hear that the Waterford Library trustees decided to close on snow days. That was always a favorite place for me to go during a storm, but it does make sense. If the roads are that bad, I suppose it makes no sense to drive to the library. Still, it is something to do on a day off.

Today, Monday the 16th, is celebrated as Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday. There is very little in the newspapers to make one realize what King did or what his dream was. That is sad. He lost his life trying to make this a better world where color was not an issue. Now in the wake of 9/11 we are more color conscious than ever.

I am sure glad we heat with wood. As the wind blows and I sit at my desk, I can feel it blowing through the house. I am not sure, yet, whether it is the windows that leak, the back door, or the walls. I will find out.

Have a great week. Stay warm and watch that black ice.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi everybody. My column didn't get in last week, did it? Well, anyway, Happy New Year to you all! I did write but didn't get it in.

You know what I did on New Year's? I celebrated by cleaning my kitchen refrigerator and freezer. I see the New Year come in that way. Not very exciting but a good way to start of the new year. It was a much needed and good job done. I didn't realize that I had so much food in the refrigerator and freezer, and some of it I didn't even know what it was.

On Jan. 2, Dale and Matthew left Boston on their journey across the United States to Los Angeles, Calif. I will write more later about that. Kitty also went to Boston to see them off. They stayed the weekend with Sharon and Howard Beriman in Belmont, Mass.

On Jan. 4, we had a surprise visitor. Albert's nephew, Craig Millett from Augusta stopped in to see us, and we had a nice visit with him. We hadn't seen him for several years. He also visited with his mother, Geneva Tripp, and his father, Bob Millett, who was in town that day. He is doing well.

On Jan. 6, Albert Nelson Jr. and son, Eric, went to the Nelson Camp at Bib Brook snowmobiling. They did have lots of snow there and they traveled lots of miles. There were a lot of other snowmobilers up there in that area also. They said it was quite cold that weekend and it was good to get back to camp where there was a nice wood fire going in the old stove.

We were saddened to learn of the passing of Kitty's mother, "Snooks" Peterson of Cranberry Island. She had been in a nursing home for quite some time. Our sympathy and prayers are with her family and friends.

Wednesday, Frances Grant and I went to Norway on lots of errands and to the Stephens Memorial Hospital for lab work. It's always tiring to do shopping and of course get pills, etc. We are always glad to get home.

Loretta Andrews is at home now after being in the Market Square Health Care Center. She would probably like to have visitors, help, and cards. Glad to have you home, Loreta.

I must hurry and get this off in the mail.

Albert is getting better, but our Katie is not doing so well.

Will talk with you next week. I did not get to meetings this past week on account of the sick ones here.

Boy Scout Troop 155 has a winter campout scheduled for Feb. 4 and 5. The Girl Scout Cookies sale is on through Jan. 29, with delivery during the week of March 4. Delbert and Joyce McAllister's granddaughter is a Girl Scout and is selling them. If you don't see her, you could call Betsy Moody at 925-6501 and get in touch with her.

Did you all remember to put the extra two cents on your postage for letters going out? Watch me! I almost forgot, myself. Will fix the envelopes right now.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

Bradley Alex was born Jan. 9, 2006 at a Portland hospital. Proud parents are Amanda and Tommy Eaton. Grandparents are Dale Hadley and Jo-Ann Appleby. Great-grandparents are Erlon and Maude Alice Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Eaton and Diane Slocum. Congratulations all.

Cleo Ryerson enjoys taking care of Maggie Ryerson once in a while.

Maude Alice Hadley would like to thank everyone who gave food for the Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets that were given to local residents.

Mathew and Casey Ryerson are taking plumbing lessons that will help them get certified later on.

Alex Ryerson plays basketball at Jay-Livermore School. His grandmother, Cleo Ryerson, said he does a great job. His dad is Troy Ryerson of South Woodstock.

Kimberly Hadley has been home visiting and will be returning to the University of Michigan soon.

I spent part of a day with my granddaughter, Jessie Hart, who just had a baby boy, Landon. I mostly just enjoyed holding the baby and visiting with Jessie. He's very cute.

Library news: Nancy Willard will be offering a two-week introduction to Tai Chi, a gentle stretching exercise for seniors or anyone at the Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond on Thursday, Jan. 19 and Thursday, Jan. 26, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. All are welcome and there is no charge.

The Board of Directors will hold their first meeting Thursday, Jan. 19, at 3 p.m. These meetings are open to the public. If you haven't been to the library lately, do come see our new floor. Gerald Broomhall has just sanded and refinished it in the old part of the library and it looks great. We have lots of books, videos, and DVDs to take out too. Check us out.

My sister, Evelyn Dunn, is in the Norway Rehabilitation Center. She would appreciate any cards or notes.

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb

The warm, soft rain turned to snow and then the wicked winter winds blew it all around and around. To have church or not was a difficult question.

The Universalist Church here in West Paris decided to have services even with a small attendance.

On Sunday, Jan. 22, the speaker will be the Rev. Kate Braestrup at 9 a.m. at the Universalist Church. Jim Burke is organist. A social coffee hour follows.

On Monday, Jan. 23, the Goodwill Fellowship will meet at the home of Joyce Lamb at 6 p.m. for a potluck supper followed by a business meeting, then Pokemo will be enjoyed. Each is to bring a wrapped small gift for the winners of each game.

The news from Florida on Sunday was that their weather was cool, 60 degrees. We here in Maine were at 8 degrees. They seem to complain more than we do. Sayward Lamb continues to improve and Cynthia awaits her MRI on Monday.

Nancy Willard will be instructing classes in Tai Chi at the Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond on Thursday, Jan. 19 and Thursday, Jan. 26 from 5:30 to 6:30. All are welcome and there is no charge.

The wind was too much for Buffy on Sunday. He went to the door to go out but turned back as the wind hit him in the face. I'm glad it was not one of my walking days for I would probably have turned back too.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Saturday, Jan. 7, for a day meeting with a potluck dinner and program. State Deputy Laura Hutchins was welcomed. Eleven members were present. Several items were discussed. April 3 will be Booster night. April 17 will be Community Service Open House. On Feb. 18, Bill Rice will present a Cabin Fever Concert to benefit the Grange.

Program was as follows: opening thought; song, "Auld Lang Syne"; music by Richard Felt, Dot Canwell, Bertha DeHaas and Yvonne Nowlin; Dot Canwell also whistled; reading, "It's a Beautiful World" by Richard Felt; song, "America the Beautiful"; reading, "Our Choice" by Lucille Robbins; song, "God Bless America"; reading, "A Little Bit" by Alice Hoyt; song, "Count Your Many Blessings"; closing thought. It was voted to put on the May and July Senior Citizens dinners.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

It is Sunday morning and we are in the midst of a mini-blizzard. The January thaw of the past week caught us off guard. The lake melted into a sea of slush. Foolhardy snowmobilers tried the lake anyway and were rewarded with an hour of "slushing out." Their engines could be heard all over the lake.

The weather changed late Saturday to frigid cold. Driving was treacherous for those who tried to use the roads. The cancellations of church-related programs were announced on TV. Lionel Roy called to tell me that Father Belle from Colebrook was advised not to attempt Dixville Notch for services at St. Pius Church in Errol. We are staying at home by the fire sipping hot chocolate and possibly something a little stronger for others.

Roger Lavalley had another leave from the hospital. He will return for more treatments Monday. Before he settled down he checked his plow customers' driveways and had Sam, his grandson, scatter sand where necessary.

Sally Lavalley has greatly improved. We wish her continued progress and a return to good health.

The Casey family traveled to North Conway to visit relatives over the weekend.

The Wixoms returned to Upton hoping for some good snowmobiling.

Jim Rector has been enjoying forays into the countryside on his cross-country skis.

Hello to Phil Learned who is a patient at the Upper Connecticut Valley Hospital in Colebrook. We miss his delicious presentations at The Balsams since he retired as executive chef.

Evelyn and Jim Kenney visited their cottage in Haynesville. The weather varied from spring-like to the dead-of-winter while they were there.

There is a very good pamphlet distributed by the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge. The date on my pamphlet is 2002. It lists all of the birds observed at Lake Umbagog. Birding around the lake is best in May and June for warblers, ducks, loons and raptors. That is the height of the black fly season, so observing is for the strong of heart and mind since the black flies are abundant in the wetlands, rivers and marsh areas which are great areas for breeding. The telephone number at the refuge is (603) 482-3415. Ask for Jennifer, who will go out of her way to accommodate you.

We haven't had our annual visit from the northern shrike. This interesting bird has some nasty habits. It will attack some defenseless songbirds and small rodents.

Its presence is rarely seen since it sits motionless in trees waiting to attack its prey. It has been known to kill, then will impale the unfortunate creature to a thorn or barbed wire for storage. A bird must provide for a future meal. It is welcome to devour all those little "creepy crawlies" but leave our birds alone.

The "Nasty Bird of the Week" is the northern shrike.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

What a weird weekend, warm weather and rain, then cold and very windy! At least we didn't lose the power at all.

The snowmobiling season in Andover is really being cut short this year. This weekend is the big Snodoe time up to Rangeley. It starts on Thursday evening and runs through Saturday night.

Saturday morning there was an accident at the Andover Falls. The man driving wasn't hurt, but I'm sure he will be driving a bit slower on that curve.

Welcome to Pastor and Mrs. Fred Lofkamp, who have moved into the parsonage at the Calvary Bible Church in South Andover. They will be ministering there for the next several months.

Sandra Wainright was surprised by her mother and aunt, Betty and Bea, with cake and ice cream at Mills Market on Tuesday. The party was going to be on Monday but messy weather messed up that idea.

Speedy recovery wishes to Phil Learned, who had surgery last Friday.

There is still time to take out nomination papers for several town positions. The papers need to be turned in by Feb. 2. The voting will take place in March, after Town Meeting.

The Andover Eagles basketball team played a close game at home last Wednesday against Woodstock. Woodstock prevailed 42-43. The team is made up of third-fourth and fifth-graders and is coached by Todd Papanou of Andover. Their next game is on Friday, tomorrow, at Crescent Park School at 3:30 p.m.

Happy belated birthday to my brother, Chris, in South Portland. (I know he gets the Bethel Paper!)

Have nice weekend everyone.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

Nearly two inches of drenching rain and spring-like temperatures last Saturday effectively wiped out the cross-country skiing snow and discouraged hordes of mountain skiers. Many of the latter crowded the Bethel Foodliner on Saturday, and we heard that BIG Adventure had waiting lists for laser tag. Moreover, the Casablanca was doing a land-office business, with at least one of the theaters full to capacity.

Fast-forward to Sunday, and temperatures had dropped to sub-freezing, resulting in glare ice on most area roadways. West Bethel churchgoers, gathering at the Rebel Restaurant for after-service "brunch," received a call from Nesta and Dick Littlefield warning of treacherous driving conditions and citing a multi-car accident on Route 26 near Locke Mills.

Temperatures continued to drop, bottoming out at minus 1 degree overnight here at the Hoehstead, with a wind-chill low of minus 31 degrees. Monday morning here it was still only 2 degrees and the winds continued to howl. "Twasn't fit out there for man nor beast! Hard to believe that there will probably have been more rain on Wednesday.

The pine siskins have been ignoring the thistle seed feeder in favor of black oil sunflower seeds, uncharacteristic behavior for them. Chickadees, nuthatches, titmice, jays, doves, and woodpeckers continue to stoke up on seeds and suet. Their little bodies need fuel more than ever under these brutal conditions, so don't forget them.

Bethel Senior Citizens had a nice luncheon/dinner last week at the Sudbury. The Richard Felt orchestra entertained both before and after the meal with familiar "oldies" music.

The West Bethel Union Church had its January Fellowship supper on Saturday evening. The usual good food and fellowship were enjoyed by all. Sunday was the occasion for the baptism of two of Carol Everett's grandchildren, always a joyous event.

Santa brought Jane Hosterman a new computer, and she has been keeping occupied with learning its particular idiosyncrasies. She is once more back in the world of Internet communication.

On Wednesday, Jan. 18, the Mahoosuc Land Trust board convened at Gould Academy for a strategic planning retreat. Gould kindly stepped in and offered space when it was learned that the NTL site was unavailable for use. Dr. Jane Moosbrucker, a member of both Mahoosuc Land Trust and NTL, volunteered to act as facilitator. The Land Trust recently joined a coalition of environmental organizations in the Mahoosuc Initiative, whose purpose is to protect the Mahoosuc Range.

Stay warm and/or dry and concentrate on all those indoor projects you've been postponing. And don't forget to call or write with news: 836-3011; dhoeh@megalink.net.

All of us wrote about the Clydesdales but we forgot Buck, the donkey. I saw him at Sparrow Hawk Farm.

Alder River Grange had a meeting on Jan. 13. The supper schedule is the third Saturday from May to October. November's supper will be on Nov. 11. At next month's meeting, on Feb. 10, the menu will be thrashed out.

Neil Olson was in Chicago on Jan. 7-9 attending a baseball coaches' conference.

Millie Jackson, Dot Bartlett and Nancy Mercer attended the Bethel Senior Citizens Club meeting on Jan. 11 at The Sudbury Inn.

Boy, what a quick change in the weather, from spring-like to cold winter in a short period of time.

Have a nice week. God Bless the Troops.

Frank Lowell, Sr., who celebrated his 83rd birthday in December, just had a knee replacement done at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway on Wednesday, Jan. 11. He did remarkably well and was released on Saturday after he had been walking the halls at the hospital.

Lately I have been having a large flock of redpolls at my finch feeder. A pileated woodpecker is also nearby drilling and eating the insects he finds in a couple of trees. I have seen it a couple of times, but more often I hear him as he is flying away.

"No man is completely worthless: He can always serve as a horrible example." A quote from a cryptogram.

retary's report was given by Arlene Lowell.

The next meeting will be Feb. 8 at the West Parish Congregational Church. The dinner will be at 12 noon and the meeting will be after dinner. After dinner and the meeting members will go to Gould Academy for a play put on by the Gould Drama Club. Price of the dinner will be $6.

The door prize was won by Bud Paine. Richard Felt and his band was the entertainment for the meeting.

Rosabelle Tift, Mary Paine and Dorothy York are on a committee to find places to have the Christmas Party. Rosabelle suggested it be held at noon if a place could be found.

Rosabelle Tift spoke on the busy trips that the Neighborly Seniors of Mexico and Dixfield are taking: March 13, St. Patrick's Day Party at Indian Head $42; March 29 and 30, trip to Mohegan Sun $180; April 6, trip to Lac Megantic, Canada $34; June 4, Jose Duddy Lobster Fest at Indian Head $50; July 14, trip to Cabage Island, Boothbay Harbor $61; Dec. 11, Christmas Party at Indian Head $45.

Poems were read by Barbara Mahler and Jane Hosterman.

the CPS after-school program and dropped off 10 pairs of skis to get bindings mounted. Thanks to funds provided by the Rec Board, the after-school program at CPS will have five new pairs of boots, seven new pairs of poles and ten new pairs of skis.

We've been able to recycle some skis that were stored up in the attic at CPS. They had some old Solomon bindings on them but were updating them with NNN bindings to match all the other equipment at CPS. David Carter plans on giving Caleb and me a lesson on binding mounting this week.

David and Ann Carter graciously put Caleb and me on skis and we had a very nice ski out to their yurt where a nice fire was burning. We certainly needed it as the wind was in our face going out on the Sand Pasture Trail. Ann gave us a couple of copies of a DVD put out by Rossignol on skate and classic technique starring a French skier Vince (I can't remember his last name) who was a World Cup champ in 2005. It made interesting viewing. Just ask and I'll loan you a copy.

Telstar middle schooler Peter Cowan braved the rain and raced in a 5k Eastern Cup skate race at Sugarloaf. Peter and a number of other BOC Bill Koch middle schoolers were out in force at the middle school dance at Telstar on Friday night. Most of them seem to ski better than they can dance. Proof of that could be seen earlier last week when the Telstar Middle School team won both the boys and girls meet at Black Mountain.

This Sunday's Jackson Jaunt has been cancelled. We are planning to meet on Sunday at 1 p.m. in the Gould ski trails on Grover Hill Road. There will be an adult clinic led by Kirk, a preschool/early elementary group led by Rudy Penczer, and an upper elementary/middle school group led by Chris Barstow.

The Oxford Hills AARP group is still accepting sign-ups for a Sugar Shack Party and Tour of Quebec City, April 5-7. This three-day trip will be a welcome respite after a long winter inside. From the

Oxford County Republicans

Former Congressman David Emery, a candidate for Maine governor in the June 2006 Republican primary, was the featured speaker at the January meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee at the North Waterford Congregational Church. In his remarks, Emery emphasized that Maine must be a place where young people like his son, currently a student at Georgia Tech, can come back to and find good jobs. If elected Maine's next governor, he promised a zero-based budget process in order to get the state's financial house in order after years of heavy spending by Democratic governors and legislatures. He also pledged an all-out assault on Maine's onerous tax burden, the worst in the country. He advocated a return to a more business-friendly economic climate which has been heavily compromised by years of Democratic over-regulation and high taxes.

During the business meeting, the committee approved several minor changes to the bylaws. Various officeholders and candidates were recognized, including Rep. Bruce Hanley (R-Paris), County Commissioners Dave Duguay and Steve Merrill, Rep. Sawin

Millett (R-Waterford), Judge of Probate Dana Hanley, Rep. Richard Sykes (R-Harrison) and Sheriff candidate Alan Carr.

Caucus packets were distributed to representatives of various towns. These caucuses must be held prior to March 15 to select delegates for the May State Convention. Plans for the annual Lincoln Day Dinner on Feb. 18 were announced. The dinner will be held at the Four Seasons Restaurant in South Paris with Ray Richardson, WLOB political radio commentator as the featured speaker. There will also be a raffle and auction. Cards will go out soon to provide instructions on purchasing tickets for this annual event and fundraiser.

From the SWOAM

The Western Maine Chapter of the Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine will host a meeting at 7 p.m. Jan. 26 at Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School on two topics: the new policy on timber harvesting in the state parks and conservation easements.

A representative from the Bureau of Parks and Land will explain the changes along with proposed demonstration cuts in Range Pond State Park in Poland and Little Concord Pond in Woodstock in 2006. Norway attorney Bruce Rood will discuss conservation easements.

Questions about the session should be directed to chapter president Bill Haynes at 583-2963 or forest@maine.com.

From the Norway Memorial Library

The first tutorials to be presented in Norway Memorial Library's Computer Lab will begin in January. A schedule of classes held both mornings and evenings has been planned in order to accommodate those who have expressed interest but have been unable to attend weekday mornings. Each class is independent of the others, is limited to six participants and requires signing up in advance. To do so, stop by the Reference Desk at the library or call 743-5309.

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

At a meeting in the Bethel Library in May 1966, eighteen individuals began what has become the Bethel Historical Society. Those designated as charter members by the leading founder Eva Bean included Bryant Bean, Margaret Carter Bean, Elizabeth Mason Carter, Philip and Mary Chadbourne, Rosalind Rowe Chapman, Edith H. Eypper, Agnes H. Haines, Floribel Haines, Ralph Hall, Edith K. Howe, Geraldine S. Howe, Bernice H. Noyes, Vance and Janet Richardson, Faye S. Taylor, and Nell W. Valentine.

During this year (2006), the society will celebrate the 40th anniversary of its founding with a number of observances and special programs including an oral history night in May and a historical highlight presentation at the annual meeting in September. The organization was incorporated in 1971.

Over the past forty years, the society has grown to over 1,300 members in most states of the Union as well as several Canadian provinces and European nations. It now owns two buildings valued at over $1 million, maintains an endowment of over $600,000, and possesses a collection estimated conservatively at over $200,000. Its budget exceeds $100,000 annually.

Over 1,300 members strong, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations. For forty years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events, heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications. In 1974, the society acquired the former Broad Street residence of Dr. Moses Mason, which now contains a period house museum, exhibit hall and research library. In 1999, the society opened the O'Neil Robinson House (next door at 10 Broad Street) to the public for an expanded exhibit program, museum shop space, and administrative offices. Through the years, the society's achievements have been recognized by a number of state and national organizations.

Further information about the society and its activities may be obtained by calling 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910, or by sending an e-mail to info@bethelhistorical.org. Additional information can also be obtained by checking the society's website at www.bethelhistorical.org. The soci-

Pianist/vocalist Marcia Ball

Pianist/vocalist/songwriter Marcia Ball will celebrate the release of her first-ever live CD, "Live! Down the Road," with a performance on Thursday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at Gould Academy's Bingham Hall on Church Street. Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for students.

Ball won two 2004 Blues Music Awards for Contemporary Blues Album of the Year for the Grammy-nominated CD, "So Many Rivers," as well as the award for Contemporary Female Blues Artist of the Year. And she recently picked up another Blues Music Award in 2005 for Best Instrumentalist-Keyboards.

Telstar 66, Carrabec 54; Jan. 16— Telstar scorers: Sean Caddigan (23); Andy Whitney (2); Louis Thornton (3); Steven McDonnell (9); Matt Zinchuk (9); Max Meader (10) Ryan Kimball (10). The Cobras jumped out to a first half lead chalking 19 points in each of the first two quarters that led to a 10-point hal-time lead, 28-38. The Rebels rallied in the third quarter, scoring 16 points and holding the Cobras to only 3 points to make the score 44-41. In the final 8 minutes Telstar controlled the ball and the clock to secure the win, 66-54.

Gould 52, Hebron 75; Jan. 16— Gould kept this game close at the half, 28-22, but a talented Hebron team was too much in the second half for the Huskies. Tyler Bruens had twelve points, while Thomas Kuemmel added eleven points.

Gould 49, North Haven 77; Jan. 13— Gould traveled to North Haven island for the first of two games on a weekend trip. Gould had trouble getting any momentum going and suffered a tough defeat. The leading scorers for the Huskies were Evan Bruens with 17 and Tyler Bruens with 8.

Gould 53, North Haven 59; Jan. 14— Gould dropped a tough game to North Haven in the second game of their weekend trip to North Haven Island. Gould made a late charge but came up short in the end. Thomas Kuemmel led the Huskies with 15 points, followed by Ian Siekman with 11.

Lisbon 55, Telstar 39; Jan. 12— Telstar scorers: Sean Caddigan (21); Ryan Kimball (10); Max Meader (6); Steve McDonnell (2). Caddigan had three three-pointers.

Telstar 62, Livermore Falls 52; Jan. 10— Telstar jumped to an early 15-point lead after the first quarter, 20-5. The second period action was all offense. Telstar scored 20 points and Livermore netted 15. The halftime scoreboard read 40-20. The Andies attacked in the third quarter, reducing the lead to 9 points. But Telstar played the clock and made free throws. The Rebels shot 80 percent from the stripe to seal the victory. Sean Caddigan led all scorers with 38 points, Steven McDonnell had 9, and Ryan Kimball dropped in 6. Guards Louis Thornton and Max Meader earned 4 points, and Matt Zinchuk 1. Charles Haines had 3 tenacious rebounds.

High School Boys' J.V. Basketball

Lisbon 67, Telstar 43, Jan. 12— Telstar scorers: Kyle Maines (10); Bryce Walker (9); Jon Sabins (6); James Kimball (6); Andy Whitney (5); Ryan Hannigan (4); Charles Haines (2); Alex Gundersen (1). All eight players on the team scored.

Gould 48, North Haven 17; Jan. 13— The Huskies traveled to North Haven on Friday and emerged victorious 48-17. Following a beautiful ride on the North Haven ferry, the women shook off their sea legs and stormed onto the court with an impressive 16-2 start in the first quarter. The team never looked back. Senior Heather Kelleher finished with an impressive 24-point performance, followed by Carley Rudd with 12 points and Seana Siekman with six. Center Ashley Hodder led North Haven with nine points, five of which came from the free throw line.

Telstar 52, Livermore Falls 50; Jan. 10— The Lady Rebels took on the number 1-ranked team in Western Maine Class C and came away with the win, 52-50. Outstanding team defense and an individual defensive performance by Liz Rosenberg held the Andies to below their season average offensively. Telstar's Bailey Davis shot extremely well, hitting four three-pointers while scoring 18 points, and Jillian Kimball nailed two 3-pointers in the first half. Chea Davis hit three of four free throws in the fourth quarter to help seal the win. The Rebels' Kelsey Dole was high rebounder, including a key rebound with six seconds to play in the game. Josie Reiss, Lindsay Hart, Megan Smith, and Chelsea Cozzolino made key defensive contributions in the Telstar victory. FROM VIRTUAL FLYING TO THE REAL THING

Craig Davis, 52, of Bethel developed leukemia in 1999, and has been battling the side effects of a bone marrow transplant he had in 2000. He has always been interested in flying, and took lessons several years ago. But because his medications prevented him from soloing, he was not able to earn a pilot's license. He has, however, continued to "fly" both planes and helicopters by means of a virtual simulator on his computer. "I've always had a passion for helicopters," he said, and has "logged" more than 1,500 chopper hours on the simulator. The stick/computer combination, he said, "is as real as it gets, except for the bouncing." He recently had a conversation with his longtime friend, Byron Lapham, about how much he would like to fly a real helicopter. Lapham decided to raise funds to buy Davis some flight time. Members of the Bethel fire and police departments chipped in with donations, and Lapham contacted Maine Helicopter Inc. in Whitefield. On Friday Davis, accompanied by his mother, Polly, and aunts Becky Kendall and Arlene Lowell, made the trip to Whitefield and took to the air with a pilot. Davis' daughter, Kate Saunders of Auburn, also flew with him. Davis said afterward that real piloting was very similar to the simulated version. "Flying the helicopter was really pretty easy," he said. "It was my wildest dream come true." Far left, from top: Davis at the simulator; flying the real thing; gathering with family and pilots afterward. Near left, top: Davis in the cockpit. Bottom: After returning to Bethel, Davis thanked the men from the departments who made his flight possible: Fire Chief Jim Young, Police Chief Alan Carr, and Lapham.

BEFORE BUYING A HOME!

Where do you start when you are ready to buy a home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is a good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is important and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighborhood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on and on.
An experienced buyer real estate agent can help you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it. You can prioritize into, "must have", "should have" and "would be nice to have". By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home, and the priority of those items, you will be in a much better position to decide whether you want to put an offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU HOME INSPECTIONS UP
Scheduling a professional inspection before purchasing a home is becoming a more frequent practice. The home inspection assures the homebuyer he is not purchasing a property with major unseen problems. It gives some assurance to the seller that there will be a minimal after-sale complaints from buyers that might lead to litigation. Inspection reports are available at a reasonable cost, averaging $318 per inspection nationally.
On the downside, there are still many practitioners who have tapped into the hot inspection field by putting a "home inspector" sign on their door, even though they may not be qualified to handle jobs professionally. They all claim to be highly qualified, but it's up to you, the customer who pays the fee to determine if he or she really has the knowledge and expertise to perform effectively.
One of the best ways to find a good inspector is to ask for personal recommendations from your real estate agent or mortgage broker. When two or three inspectors appear to be good possibilities, ask them for references from recent customers who can verify their professional integrity.
For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
